QUALIFIED EXPERTS ON OUR REGULATION COMMISSION

Just as public health experts guided Governor Lujan Grisham's decision-making in the fight against COVID-19, there is a proposal on the ballot this fall to put public utility experts on our Public Regulation Commission.

New Mexico is one of the few states that has politicians oversee utilities instead of experts, and if the proposal passes, Commissioners would be professionally-qualified with required credentials, independent of the industries regulated by the Commission and prohibited from having any personal financial interest in any public utility. [See House Bill 386 for required professional qualifications of PRC Commissioners]
